The main image is a photograph of a modern, multi-story apartment building named 'Oxbow'. The building is constructed from light-colored brick and features numerous balconies with glass railings. It is situated on a street corner, with a black metal fence in the foreground and a road with a few cars to the right. Bare trees are visible in the background and foreground, suggesting a winter or early spring setting. A large, semi-transparent watermark reading 'ERNEST-BROOKS' is overlaid across the center of the building.
